CACP Scholarship Application

The Chinese American Construction Professionals (CACP) is a non-profit organization. As one of the premier professional organizations for the construction and development industry in Southern California, we are composed of many exceptional licensed architects, engineers, contractors. In addition, our membership also consists of all design and construction related professionals. The organization's mission includes enhancing members' competitiveness in the local and global market; serves the community and building construction industry; facilitates professional and business networking opportunities and nurtures future design and construction professionals.

CACP partners with other organizations and ethnic groups enhance understanding and sensitivity to culture, gender, economic, education and generation diversity. It allows us to capitalize on the rich talents, skills-sets, and experiences of our diverse communities for the benefit of all. Our goal is to partner with others in work and service to all, to better the local communities in which we live and the broader society in which we exist.

The Chinese American Construction Professionals (CACP) Scholarship Program was established to provide aid to students who are pursuing their career in architecture, engineering, design, or construction-related fields. CACP is committed to support future young professionals and will offer each scholarship applicant a free year of student membership ($35.00 value) to our organization.

Scholarships will vary from $1,000-$3,000.
